

Joseph Smith Historic Site

In May 1918, the first missionaries/guides were sent to Nauvoo to begin the task of preserving the homes of Joseph and Emma Smith and to interpret the homes for visitors.

Church members in and around Nauvoo have been an important part of welcoming and supporting the many guides and missionaries that have served the site over the last century.

In this centennial year, we'd like to hear from you about your experiences living in and around Nauvoo. Feel free to post your memories to our Joseph Smith Historic Site Facebook page (photos are welcome and encouraged) or mail them directly to us at JSHS, PO Box 338, Nauvoo, IL 62354.

On August 31st we will draw from the memories we've received by mail and Facebook and one lucky winner (and their family) will be invited to spend three nights in one of the Joseph Smith Historic Site homes!

For questions contact Wendy Eaton, JSHS Administrative Specialist, at weaton@cofchrist.org / 217-453-2246.
